The Pennsylvania Legislature says the state's volunteer firefighters can now legally ask drivers stopped at intersections for donations in "fill the boot" campaigns. Community Matters' Patsy Benson doesn't think local volunteer companies should be forced to rely on such fundraising activities to fill budget gaps.

The Coalition thanks Community Matters for taking on this important issue. Link to the article below.

PA volunteer firefighters can now ease funding woes by soliciting drivers on the side of the road -- is this what we want for our first responders in Tredyffrin?...

Our community is one of many across the state and nation searching for a sustainable funding solution for fire companies. Follow the link below to learn how Cumberland County's East Pennsboro Township is addressing this issue.

This past weekend, four CFARS members participated in the National Collegiate Emergency Medical Services Foundation (NCEMSF)'s 2016 Conference, held in Philadelphia. Deputy Chief of EMS Bucky Buchanan presented 3 sessions on MCI and Incident Management and was a judge for the nearly 40 schools participating in the skills competition, while EMT/FF Brandon Murphy, an alumni and co-founder of University of Arizona EMS spoke about keeping Alumni involved after graduation. EMT Rishi Singhal representing TCNJ Emergency Medical Services and EMT Colin Pfleger-Schweer representing Radford University EMS as their Training Lieutenant, both attended sessions over the 3 days as part of the over 1100 student EMS providers from across the US, Canada & Jamaica.
